

Trends for the Future

In its 15 years of service, TDC & Associates has built a long-standing reputation for distinctive designs and detail, and creating dream interiors that best understands and expresses their clients' personal styles. Led by the chief designer Mr L.H. Chan, the team at TDC & Associates is respected in local and international design circles for delivering some of the region's best designs by crafting unique homes for discerning clients.

Even though Mr Chan's team had recently designed two homes for him, the Chinese professional still felt that the design team at the firm still had the ability to surprise him, and thus entrusted them with the challenge of redesigning his 1600 sq ft, single storey family home at Newton. Unmodified by interior decorators since it was built more than 20 years ago, the owner felt that it was time to upgrade to a stylish and easy-to-maintain décor theme that is relevant for today, and the times to come.

While deciding that the flooring for the living, dining and bedrooms needed little help to stand up to the test of time, the TDC team settled to create a modern contemporary theme, matching a light-hearted interplay of black and white patterns in the furnishings with an earthy and homely dash of wood colours.

In the foyer and living rooms, the black and white theme is achieved through use of striped and patterned rugs from Carpets & Furnishing, and white Marcel Breuer replica lounge chairs from The LifeShop. A touch of earth tones is introduced with the chrome Molecule decorative hand servus in the foyer, while black and light brown cushions rest comfortably on the custom made suede fabric three-seater sofa that takes the centre stage in the living room.

The most domestic of rooms in the home show a preponderance of the earth tones and wood laminate panels. The dining room is a down to earth affair, with the framed family photo gallery on white wall providing the centre of attention, while black Lightcraft pendant lights deliver a cosy feel when the family tucks into their meals. In the kitchen, a touch of playful creativity greets the homeowners, through a decorative antique ladder.

The master bedroom hosts an extravagant interpretation of the black-white-earth tones home scheme. A luxurious and ornate bedspread from Quedos pairs perfectly with Ombrage mirrors in antique gold and the black table lamps from Million Lighting. For more information, please visit www.tdc.com.sg
