

It's not an easy task to create a home that oozes luxe and comfort like that of a posh Manhattan hotel. As TDC says, "It's all about the totality in design". With shifting home trends and discerning homeowners, interior design has become a meticulous craft, and judging by what TDC had executed on this 3,800 sqft home at Draycott8, has made it one of their proudest projects to date.

This four-bedroom apartment accommodates a well-travelled family of three, the Memmens, from the US. Although the apartment came with the usual trappings of luxurious kitchen and bathroom fittings, more had to be done to achieve the desired style in the overall plan. In fact, the wife, who has interest in design and décor, contributed some of the artistic and décor touches.

TDC firmly believed in creating warmth to a room and their pick of implementing the deep chocolate colour of American Walnut is evidenced in the wall cladding residing in the dining room. Also, a floor-to-ceiling screen made of thin wooden slats dominates the living room. The final touch was throwing in creams and whites belonging to ceiling, flooring, furniture and accessories, resulting in a space that is both cosy and soothing to the eye.

One of the most indulgent things to do in this apartment is appreciating the city views of Orchard Road at the end of the day. And thanks to the dining room's full-height glass windows, the family's meal times have become even more pleasurable.

Much of the design was also focused on creating intimacy in the living area. The designers achieved this by way of opting for a L-shaped sofa from Minotti selected by the wife, and keeping the space open between the dining and living areas. And the trick to anchor the eye in this big space was to incorporate something dramatic - a customised monochromatic rug with bold patterns.

TDC had certainly created the perfect setting for the family to include their treasured Art pieces and their prized designer furniture. But the designers truly believed that one had to create the right interiors 'canvas' in order to bring out the beauty of the smallest home accessory to the largest piece of furniture. The resulting space is one that is practical, comfortable and aesthetically pleasing.

This is an interior job executed sophisticatedly to reflect the homeowner's taste and character, too, and one more to add to the interior design firm's impressive 13 years in the business. For more information, please visit www.tdc.com.sg
